Well it started out fine... he picked me up from my house... all good... booked the tickets for the cinema and went for a nice drink while we waited..... lovely... We then do the whole small talk thing... he starts talking about the sandwich he had yesterday... in great detail! What bread it was, what was in it, what sauce went with it and so on! I was trying my best to sound interested but then when he started talking about how much debt he is in and that his family had to save him and nearly broke up over it... to make it worse he had the worst dull voice ever!! I really wanted to get out lol!! So I ended the date quite early and then as soon as he dropped me off, he insisted he come inside too (!) to meet my parents! The next day I woke up.. and had 4 texts and about 12 missed calls from him!! One of the texts was inviting himself to my house to watch a movie for that night!!! This carried on for about 2 weeks! Him hounding me with calls etc!! Terrible!!!
